LET US KNOW

The Uthiramerur inscriptions in Kanchipuram district indicate that the Chola Kingdom followed the Kudavolai method to elect candidates for village administration.

Kudavolai is a traditional method of election.

Village people gathered and wrote the names of preferred candidates in palm leaves and kept them in a mud pot called Kudam. A child was called to pick up palm leaves one by one. The persons, whose names in palm leaves were declared elected.
